TWO STINNES MEN IN CUNO'S CABINET

Heinze and Becker Appointed Ministers of Justice and Economics.

HERMES RETAINS POST

Three Others From Wirth Regime Are Retained by New Chancellor.

BERLIN, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—William Cuno to-night announced his new Cabinet, which contains only seven active parliamentarians. There are three Democrats, two Clericals and two members of the German People's party (Hugo Stinnes's industrial group). Herr von Rosenberg, Herr Stinzel and Herman Mueller are regarded as non-partisan, while the new Secretary of the Chancellery, Eduard Hamm, who was Bavarian Minister of Commerce and Industry, is a Democratic member of the Reichstag. Dr. Albert, the Minister of the Treasury, is a member of a group party, but is not active politically.

The only two Ministers in the new Cabinet who are doubtful are von Rosenberg and Rudolph Oeser, Chancellor Cuno, however, expects to have their definite acceptances to-morrow.

The full list follows:

Chancellor, William Cuno; Vice-Chancellor and Minister of Justice, Dr. Carl Heinze; Minister of Foreign Affairs, Dr. von Rosenberg; Minister of the Interior, Rudolph Oeser; Minister of Finance, Andreas Hermes; Minister of Economics, Johannes Becker; Minister of the Treasury, Dr. Heinrich Albert; Minister of Transportation, Gen. William Groener; Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, Dr. Stinzel; Minister of Food, Herman Mueller; Minister of Defense, Dr. O. Seeber; Minister of Labor, Dr. Heinrich Brauns.

Dr. von Rosenberg, at present German Minister to Denmark, served as departmental chief in the Foreign Office before and during the war. He is a comparatively newcomer to the diplomatic service.

Drs. Heinze and Becker, of the German People's party, served in the Fehrenbach Cabinet.

Heinrich Albert, former Secretary of the Chancellery, was German commercial agent in the United States at the time of breaking off relations.

Rudolph Oeser, Democratic member of the Prussian Diet, is a well-known economist.

Dr. Stinzel, up to the present, has been chief of the Bavarian section of the ministry of posts and telegraphs.

Dr. Mueller, new Food Controller, is director of the Rhenish Agricultural Chamber.

The ministers holding over from the Wirth Cabinet, Hermes and Brauns, are Clericals, and Groener and Groener are Democrats.

Possibly on Thursday the Ministry will make its first appearance before the Reichstag, where it is believed it will have the support of the three middle parties, from whose ranks most of the new ministers were chosen. The United Socialists refused to have a part in the Cabinet and no support from them is looked for.

WHITE PLAINS SEWER GULPS $80,000 LIQUOR

Sheriff Destroys 8,040 Bottles From the Bat.

Sheriff George J. Werner of Westchester county yesterday destroyed 670 cases of whisky and liquors worth $80,000, seized on the big yacht Bat when she sailed in New Rochelle harbor five months ago. There were 8,040 bottles in the lot.

Employees in the Court House at White Plains stopped work to watch the Sheriff as he saw that every bottle was broken and the contents poured into the sewer.

COLLEGE POINT GIRL GONE.

Schoolmates of Pupil, Aged 11, Turn Out in Search.

Hundreds of boys and girls from Public School 27, College Point, Queens, started out last evening to search for Wilhelmina Schneider, 11, a pupil in 6A grade, the daughter of Joseph Schneider of 211 Second avenue, College Point. Her mother is dead.

Wilhelmina went to school Monday morning and returned home at noon. She left home to go back to the school house, five blocks away, but she never arrived there. She wore a black plush coat, a yellow gingham dress, white collar and cuffs, tan shoes, tan stockings and a black hat.

BAGGAGE ON WRONG LINER AS HE STARTS WORLD TOUR

B. O. Willebrands, on Laconia as Millionaire Realizing Dream of Newsboy Days, Also Finds Berth Too Small for His 6 Feet 5 Inches.

The Cunarder Laconia, first of five liners that will circle the globe this winter, sailed yesterday on her 130 day voyage under the auspices of the American Express Company with everybody perfectly satisfied except the tallest voyager, Benjamin O. Willebrands of Detroit, electrical contractor and ranch owner, who, beginning as a newsboy, is now a millionaire and is fulfilling the dream of his youth. Being good natured, Mr. Willebrands' troubles did not spoil his trip. He first found that his berth was a little cramped for his six feet five inches. "All right," said the manager of the excursion, "we will fix that," and he called the ship's carpenter, who took out a wardrobe at the foot of the berth and added eighteen inches to it.

But the second complaint of the big man was not so readily satisfied. He found that his baggage had not arrived. Baggage men learned that the baggage had come, but had been put aboard the wrong ship, the big Berengaria, which had just pulled out from the other side of the pier. All right again, said the manager, and he sent a wireless to the Berengaria to please put Mr. Willebrands' baggage aboard the pilot boat at Sandy Hook so the Laconia could ship it when she passed out. And the giant traveler said "Hurrah!" and laughed heartily that the manager insisted on doing something more for him just to hear the mighty chuckle.

Mr. Willebrands started the movement to have automobile owners care one day every year for gold star mothers of the war, and he says that now 70,000 persons are doing it.

The globe riders, 416 all told, are from thirty-seven States. G. W. Clarke, traveling purser of the Cunard Line, sent from Liverpool especially for the Laconia, said that he was figuring out the number of moonlight and star nights he had no doubt that some of the sixty-seven marriageable young women aboard would become involved in romances.

FULLER BUCKETING TESTIMONY CLOSES

Court Refuses Plea to Quash and Holds Braid Was Not Accomplice.

A jury in General Sessions will receive this morning the case based on the second of thirteen indictments against Edward M. Fuller of E. M. Fuller & Co., Consolidated Stock Exchange brokers, who failed last spring for $50,000 and who previously was the center of a sensation when Miss Nellie Black, a motion picture actress with whom he had lived five years, walked into his office and threatened to shoot him.

In his summation before the jury yesterday afternoon William J. Fallon, lawyer for Fuller, compared his client to an honest man among thieves. John A. Braid of Braid & Vogel, Consolidated Stock Exchange brokers and Albert Viethman, formerly an order clerk for Fuller & Co., who were witnesses, were cast by Mr. Fallon in the role of the thieves.

When the State had completed its case Mr. Fallon offered no witnesses and Fuller declined the privilege of testifying.

Fallon moved to have the indictment, which charges bucketing, dismissed on the ground that the testimony of Braid, the chief witness, was worthless because he was an accomplice in the alleged crime.

Judge Robert S. Johnson decided that Braid was not an accomplice and denied the motion.

The first of the indictments against Fuller—alleged grand larceny—was dismissed by Judge Johnstone last week.

Nelson O'Connell, Assistant District Attorney, quoted the testimony to show that there was no indication of either Braid or Viethman having stolen from Fuller. On the contrary, he said, under the alleged bucketing agreement between Fuller and Braid it would have been impossible for them to steal money. He called attention to canceled checks which had passed from Braid to the Fuller firm and said that there was no theft.

He outlined to the jury that Franklin L. Link of Westmoreland, Tenn., had given Fuller & Co. an order to buy certain stocks and that Fuller & Co. had sent him a confirmation of the transaction, signifying not only acceptance of the contract but ostensibly that the contract had been executed. He added that, as a matter of fact, the contract had not been executed, but Fuller, as a member of the firm, intentionally cheated Link by bucketing his order through the Braid arrangement.

AMERICAN LEGION HEAD IS GLAD GROS RESIGNED

Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, announced yesterday that he had accepted the resignation of Dr. Edmund Gros as commander of the legion department of Connecticut. Dr. Gros recently was quoted as saying that "the legion is a dying organization and the New Orleans convention was a disgraceful affair."

A. W. Kipling of Paris will succeed him. "I am sorry Dr. Gros feels out of harmony with the legion," said Mr. Owsley, "but I feel he should have resigned and I am glad to welcome Mr. Kipling to his place."

SAILS TO BAG BIG BLACK AFRICAN RHINOCEROS

Clark Seeks Specimens for the Museum of Natural History.

James L. Clark, sculptor and hunter of big game, who has mounted many of the African wild creatures brought to this country in recent years, sailed yesterday by the Cunarder Berengaria with his wife, an expert shot, on his way to Africa to bag, if possible, three black rhinoceroses for the African Hall of the Museum of Natural History. Mr. Clark announced that he and Mrs. Clark would enter the little explored

African wilds of the Tanganyika territory, owned before the world war by Germany, and hoped to obtain not only fine and possibly some new faunal specimens but rare fossils and maybe diamonds and precious metals.

Their objective, Mr. Clark said, is a volcanic crater tract 10,000 feet above sea level, in which it has been estimated there are from 75,000 to 100,000 head of mixed African game.

The Berengaria was held at her pier ten minutes to allow a cabin passenger, Mrs. Giovanni B. Antonio, a school teacher in Milan, to run over to the pier of the French Line, a block away, to get her passport, issued at a subsidiary French consulate. She was cheered as she rushed down the pier and up the gangplank.

WHAT THE AMPICO CAN DO

Entertain everybody—Whether he likes jazz, Or likes to sing. If he likes opera, Or the famous sonatas—The great nocturnes, Or romantic rhapsodies—In fact, no matter What kind of music he likes. Or if perchance He likes to dance, It is always ready. It assumes the personality Of the player Of popular melodies, Or impersonates Rachmaninoff, With equal fidelity. It serves both The intellectual musician Or the little child With just that music The individual desires. It never tires, But accomplishes the tasks Of several hundred musicians With smiling ease. It never intrudes; Its company never jars, But remains a lifelong friend, To drive away dull care Wherever it finds it; Creating a new life And reviving the zest In home pleasures. Try an Ampico in your home, We'll gladly send one—We're sure you'll like it.

Cement a Quality Product

Last year thirty million tons of raw materials were fed into the portland cement mills of this country, and the finished product came out in approximately 400 million sacks. To handle all this material through the long process of pulverizing, burning, and pulverizing again, with such care that a handful taken at random from any sack would meet the exacting specifications of leading engineering societies and the Government—that was the manufacturers' task.

Materials must be handled in great quantities in a cement plant, otherwise the cost (less now per pound than that of any comparable manufactured product) would be prohibitive. The product must be uniform and of high quality, for the permanence of great structures, and even life itself, depends on it.

This great task is simplified by fifty years of study and experimentation in quality control. But it still calls for constant routine testing by highly skilled artisans and chemists.

Take the cement plant chemist, for instance. Workmen guided by his instructions proportion the various raw materials a ton or more at a time. The tests which he makes to determine these proportions must be so precise that the glass enclosed balance used for weighing is accurate to the nearest ten thousandth of a gram. There are 454 gram to the pound. Such a balance will quickly detect the difference in weight of a piece of paper before and after you have written your name on it.

Few industrial products require as great care in their manufacture as portland cement and few get it so uniformly.

The guiding hand of the chemist and his assistants is seen and felt at every point in the process of manufacture—in the quarry or pit where the raw materials are obtained—in the grinding department where the raw materials are proportioned, mixed and ground—in the burning department where under intense heat the chemical transposition takes place—in the finished grinding department where the raw materials now transformed into clinker become the fine powder we call portland cement.

Some tests are made every 15 minutes—some hourly. Some samples are being taken continuously with automatic samplers—others are snatched at random from the conveyors. Whatever experience dictates is necessary to insure uniformity and high quality—that is done.
